Today's children have more social interactions on the web than anywhere else. From social networks to instant messaging services, parents can't see everything – and don't really want to. We analyze your children's online behavior and send you brief alerts when we detect suspicious relationships or activities, or when your children appear to be in trouble.

Who's protecting your children online?

YOU can – with United Parents

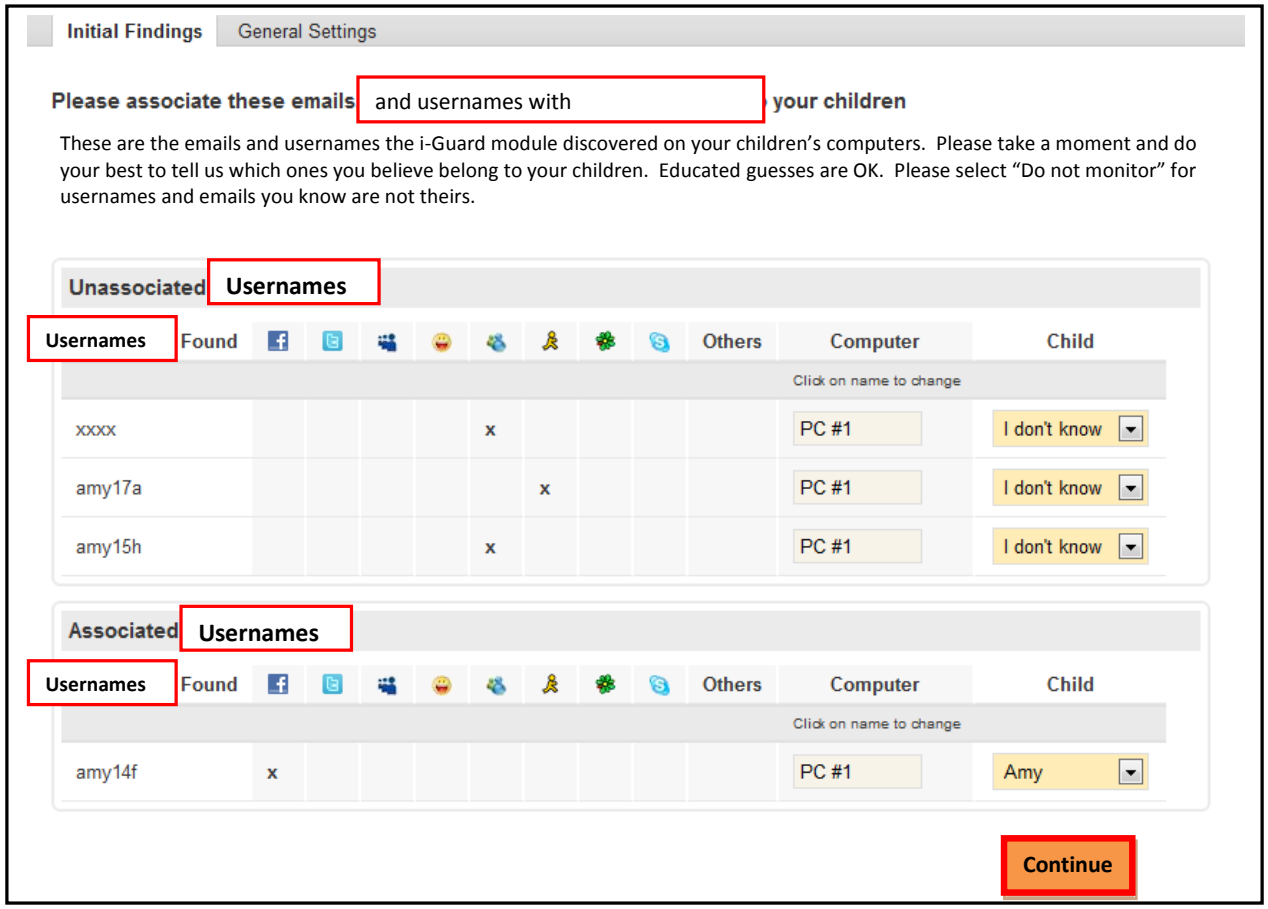

Download Now

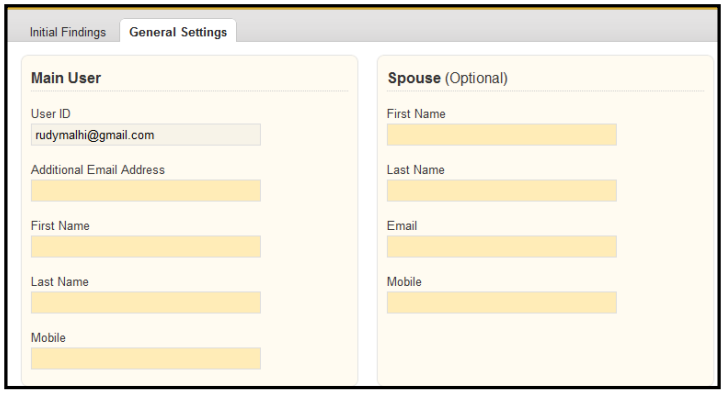

To activate United Parents Child-Protection Service™ and ensure your children's online safety, download and install the i-Guard module on their computers now.

Installing i-Guard on your home's other computers incurs no additional fees. Your children will stay safe when they use computers shared with the rest of the family.

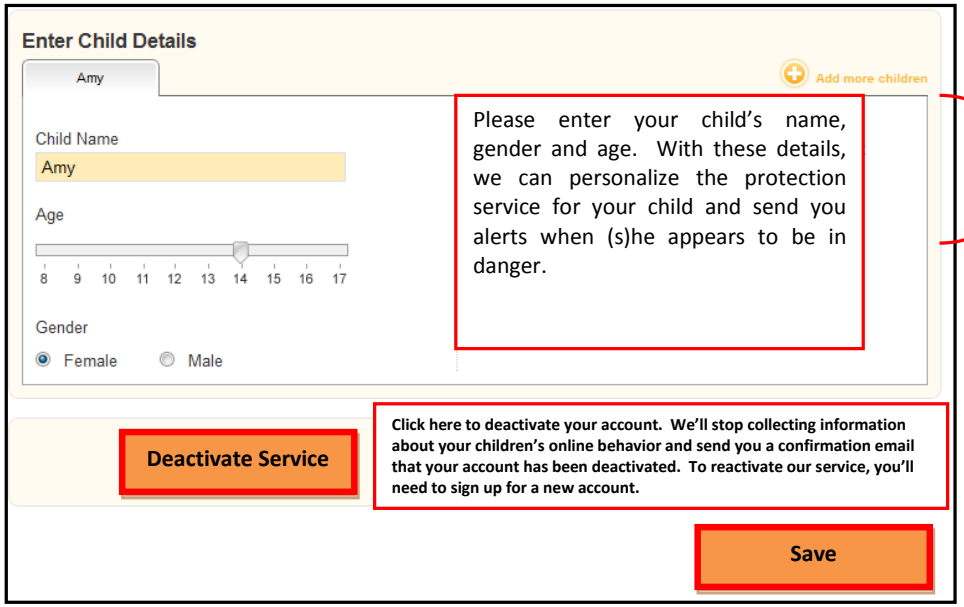

How to install

The installation should start immediately once your download has completed. Follow the instruction prompts and review our terms of service. You'll know the i-Guard module has successfully installed when you see the phrase "Installation Completed Successfully."

- "I'm using the United Parents Child-Protection Service™ to protect my children online from predators and cyberbullies. My experience with them has been great, and I recommend them to you, too. The more people who use the service, the better protected our kids are. You may want to consider checking this service out."
